Discoveries

Gradier and Kneipp facility Altaussee

The Altaussee salt bath consists of a round structure covered with pine branches and a square structure decorated with pine cones. Since 1956, brine from the Altaussee salt mine has been flowing directly onto the pine branches and wood, releasing fine salt aerosols and essential oils. These purify the air and have a particularly beneficial effect on respiratory diseases such as asthma or pollen allergies.

At the Eldu tailor's workshop in Bad Mitterndorf, naturally dyed fabrics are used to create unique garments that are given their special character by fine knitting and crochet work and lovingly crafted wooden buttons. A special highlight is the weekly ElHuGa Shopping Day every Wednesday.
